Sue Adams (soprano) started singing in 2019 when she joined the Bournemouth University Choir and has since studied with Natalie Burton. In April this year, Sue was awarded the ALCM diploma in classical singing with Distinction. Sue continues to sing with the Bournemouth University Choir and with the choir at St Peter's in Dorchester. Sue combines her love of singing with running her own sole practitioner legal practice in Dorset.

Natalie Burton (clarinet) studied music, both as an undergraduate and postgraduate student at the University of Southampton and recently completed her PhD on the twentieth-century English song cycle with the Open University, where she is now a Visiting Fellow. She enjoys a varied career performing, conducting and teaching, both at Bournemouth University and in her private practice.

Ian Davis (piano) studied at the Royal College of Music as well as Southampton and Surrey universities. He is Head of Music at Bournemouth University and Director of Music here at St Peter's Church.
